

Memo: Warren East Middle School

Social Studies Teachers

Recently, funding for public education has been drastically reduced due to shortfalls in state revenue. As a result, monies that ordinarily would be granted to Warren East Middle School will not be forthcoming. In short, this school is facing severe financial problems and the school administration has been forced to consider alternative funding sources.

Therefore, a new policy is being enacted, effectively immediately. Each student in social studies classes will be required to pay for all photocopied or dittoed material used in class. The fee will be 10 cents per page. There will be absolutely no exceptions to this rule. Any student who does not pay the 10-cent fee will be unable to participate in classroom activities that include photocopied or dittoed material, and will receive a zero for those activities.

While this may seem a burden, let me assure you that it is absolutely necessary and appropriate. We must all work together to solve this temporary financial problem.
